Good Road Facts

Henceforth, civilization can be no better than its highways.

More than $1,000,000,000 was spent in improving highways of the United States last year.

Good roads are a fine thing, but it is well to remember that they lead away from the farm as well as to it.

All roads leading to the four gateways of Yellowstone National park are reported to be in excellent condition.

The national parks, seven in the United States and three in Canada, are now linked together by improved highways.

The Defense highway, shortening the distance between Washington and Annapolis, Md., by eight miles, will be completed this year.

Twenty times around the world: Such, at any rate, is the distance American motorists could travel on their 500,000 miles of surfaced roads.

The Arizona highway department has taken consideration of the pedestrian on the roadway and has made official recommendation that he walk on the left side.

Minnesota has 160,000 miles of public roads of which 7,000 are trunk highways treated by special patrol maintenance, on which there has been expended during the past five years $32,000,000 annually. This state is a large user of calcium chloride for dust laying and highway maintenance.

PUBLIC UTILITIES REGULATORY BODIES CONVENE AT DALLAS

Walter S. Gifford, Bell System Head, addresses meeting.

DALLAS, TEXAS.—John J. Esch, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, were among the utility men present at a luncheon given at the Adolphus Hotel on the occasion of the annual meeting of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners.

WALTER S. GIFFORD, 42-Year-Old President of Bell System, Addressed Convention of National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners in Dallas, October 20.

One of the principal speeches at the luncheon was the address of President Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. His speech, in part, was:

"Broadly considered, you, as Public Utility Commissioners, and we in the telephone business, are engaged in a common enterprise; our success must depend upon mutual confidence and understanding. In the current performance of our daily tasks it is possible to lose sight of the ultimate aim and goal of our endeavors. With the thought in mind that it may prove helpful, I wish to state very briefly the principles that guide the management of the Bell System.

420,000 Stockholders

"There are today over 420,000 stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and no one of them owns as much as one per cent of the capital stock. The business of this Company and its Associated Bell Telephone Companies, whose common stock is largely owned by this Company, is to furnish telephone service to the nation. This business from its very nature is carried on without competition in the usual sense.

"These facts have a most important bearing on the policy that must be followed by the management if it lives up to its responsibilities. The fact that the ownership is so widespread and diffused imposes an unusual obligation on the management to see to it that the savings of these hundreds of thousands of people are secure and remain so. The fact that the responsibility for such a large part of the entire telephone service of the country rests solely upon this Company and its Associated Companies also imposes on the management an unusual obligation to the public to see to it that the service shall at all times be adequate, dependable and satisfactory to the user. Obviously, the only sound policy that will meet these obligations is to continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety. This policy is bound to succeed in the long run and there is no justification for acting otherwise than for the long run.

"It follows that there is not only no incentive but it would be contrary to sound policy for the management to earn speculative or large profits for distribution as 'melons' or extra dividends. On the other hand, payments to stockholders limited to reasonable regular dividends with their right, as the business requires new money from time to time, to make further investments on favorable terms, are to the interest both of the telephone users and of the stockholders.

Spirit of Service

"Undoubtedly a very great factor in the continued progress and improvement of telephone service is the intangible but quite real spirit of service that has become a tradition in the telephone business. It is fundamental in our plan of organization to have at headquarters and in our laboratories several thousand people whose sole job it is to work for improvement. They are engaged in studying what is used in the telephone business and how it is used and endeavor to find a better thing or a better way. Of course, the people who are engaged day by day in trying to maintain a high standard of telephone service are doing their part, and a most important part, in increasing the quality and keeping down the cost of service, but progress is assured by having a large group of scientists and experts devoted exclusively to seeking ways and means of making the service better and cheaper.

"It is now nearly 20 years since the State Commissions generally took over the duties of regulating the telephone companies. During those 20 years the physical results of your regulation and our operation are impressive. In 1907 there were about 6,000,000 telephones in the United States, but they were only partially interconnected, while today there are over 18,000,000 telephones in the United States so interconnected that it is possible for practically any one of the 18,000,000 to be connected with reasonable promptness with any one of the 18,000,000. This today, practically any one anywhere can talk by telephone with any one else, anywhere else in the country. Moreover, anyone in the United States can now converse by telephone with any one in Great Britain, Canada, Cuba, and the principal cities of Mexico."

A "BANK" OF MONEY

WHEN our ancestors spoke of a bank they were not thinking of an institution, but of a fund of money, like the sand in a sand bank. The old Pennsylvania Bank was such a fund, raised to buy provisions for the starving Continental Army.

Today your bank is a solid, substantial institution operating strictly according to the banking laws and adopting every safeguard for your funds.

The Power Dispatcher

IN THE early days of electric service a "weather watcher" was stationed atop of the old generating plants to watch for darkening clouds. Clouds meant that hundreds of incandescent globes suddenly would be switched on, causing a greater load to be put on the generators. At the watcher's call engineers in the powerhouse speeded up the machinery and additional power was added to the lines.

Today there is a load dispatcher in the central dispatcher's office, who, through the aid of delicate instruments and constant telephone reports from all of the power generating stations on the transmission system, has replaced the "weather watcher." Instruments record any increase or decrease in demand for power anywhere along the lines and generators are speeded up or slowed down accordingly. The load dispatcher controls power much the same as the train dispatcher controls trains.

This is one insight as to the operation of your power and light system—something behind the switch which the average person has no occasion to know.

O. H. Cross Wins Seat In Congress In Close Race With Maxwell

O. H. Cross, farmer and well known agricultural leader has won his seat in the congress of the United States to succeed Tom Conaly, by defeating John Maxwell in the primary of last Saturday.

Friends of Mr. Cross in Cameron and Milam county, are congratulating him on his victory. His vote came from the rural sections of the district and the final result was in doubt for several days but he has won by a small majority.

Mr. Cross sponsored a movement to have cotton acreage restricted by law in Texas. This measure was criticized by many and was defeated. This plan was to fix by law what crops the farmer should plant on his land. It was regarded as more radical than communist measures and bordered on confiscation of the farms by the state. Many bankers joined with Mr. Cross.

Mr. Cross is regarded as the best informed man in Texas on agriculture and will no doubt take his place with the agricultural group in Congress.

Bridge Party

Mrs. W. Levy was hostess to two tables of bridge at her home Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock and named as honoree Mrs. Paul Silber nee Miss Jewel Joslin of San Antonio.

A color scheme of yellow and white was carried in party appointments. Marigolds in floor baskets added charm to the attractive reception suite. Table favors were hand-painted vases filled with marigold blossoms. These fell to Mrs. J. C. Young and Miss Winnie Henderson the latter in turn presented hers to the honoree. The hostess presented Mrs. Silber with some dainty lingerie.

Orange ice and white angel food squares were served as refreshments. Single marigolds were used as plate favors.

ANOTHER NORMALCY CAMPAIGN

Is the Presidential campaign a race?

Then Mr. Hoover seems content to let Governor Smith set the pace.

Is it a fight?

Then Mr. Hoover seems content to let Gov. Smith choose the battle field.

And Governor Smith has taken the initiative boldly.

Blow has followed blow in rapid succession. First his telegram to the Houston Convention by which he committed himself to some kind of modification of prohibition through State action. Then his speech on the Fourth of July, by which he committed himself to a defense of his association with Tammany Hall. Then his reply to the Indiana Farm Bureau Federation pledging himself, if elected, to a conference (even before inauguration) to put into a plan the principle of making each crop carry the cost of marketing its surplus. Now—most vigorous of all—his selection of John J. Raskob as his campaign manager and money raiser.

This selection of Mr. Raskob is both bold attack on the Republican position and an equally realignment of the Democratic forces.

Traditionally, the Democratic party of Cleveland—has been for a low tariff. Mr. Raskob has been till now listed as a Republican and presumably believes in protection. Under Bryan the Democratic Party was brought to the support of prohibition and opposed big business because it was big. Mr. Raskob is an opponent not only of the Volstead Act, but of the 18th Amendment, and is financial head of one of the greatest organizations of big business in this country—the General Motors Corporation. Moreover, under Bryan Fundamentalist Protestantism became as never before a political factor. Mr. Raskob, like Governor Smith, is a Roman Catholic. By selecting Mr. Raskob to manage his campaign, and thus securing his election as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Governor Smith has cut connection with the Cleveland Democracy of 'tariff reform' and has repudiated practically all that Bryanism stood for. At the same time he has occupied positions that the Republicans have claimed as their own—encouragement of business evolution and the cultivation of business prosperity.

Thus as the campaign starts the initiative is with the Democrats. Will it remain there? Why not? The Republicans are the ins and the Democrats are the outs. It requires initiative for the outs to get in. The in-trenchments are well dug. Only three times in nearly seventy years have the Republicans been dislodged from them. They have learned how to stand sieges. They have become accustomed to depend on their normal numerical superiority in the Nation. They count on the margin of about six million votes and rely on numbers to overcome strategy. But they may find before the campaign is over that their hope lies in recovering the initiative for themselves. Will they then be able to meet Governor Smith and his reorganized forces on the ground of their own choosing or even on grounds that Governor Smith has chosen? It may then be too late.

Did not the Republican party learn after the Hughes campaign of 1916 that the normal Republican majority of six million or so can disappear into the camp of a sufficiently engaging Democrat?—The Outlook.

LAWLESS MINISTERS

Certain citizens of Dallas, Texas, complained recently that the Rev. Earl Anderson, pastor of the Baptist Fundamental church, was making so much noise at night that they couldn't sleep. He was, it appears, building a tabernacle, and he didn't keep union hours.

Anderson ignored the complaint. His neighbors then got out an injunction restraining him from further work. He refused to obey the injunction. He was held in contempt of court, fined $100 and ordered to post a bond of $1000 to assure his observance of the restraining order. He refused to pay the fine or post the bond and was sent to jail.

Meanwhile, the Rev. J. Frank Norris, the shooting parson of Fort Worth, barged into the situation. He approved all that colleague had done, tried to arrange for radio addresses from the prisoner's cell and threatened to talk against the judge who issued the injunction unless the suit was settled to his satisfaction.

Plainly, here are two ministers who have a deficient sense of their civic responsibility.

The minister is, true enough, in a peculiar position in the community. He is, whether he wishes it or not, a man privileged and apart. Laymen temper their speech in his presence. Women are inclined to flutter. He is the sacrificial goat, except that he is loaded, not with the tribal sins, but with their uncomfortable virtues. An exaggerated importance is attached to his opinions. The editor has always other editors at his elbow. The lawyer makes his plea in the presence of an opponent more than ready to pounce on misstatements and exaggerations. When the minister mounts the pulpit, tradition makes him sacrosanct. The mantle of the oracle falls on him. Any criticism of him sounds like blasphemy. The ghost of theocracy has not yet been laid in this country.

It is not surprising, perhaps, that in such a position an unstable man acquires a swollen notion of his power. If it is a tenet of his faith to treat his pulpit utterances as infallible then the minister may expect them to be received as such by the faithful; but only so long as he is in the pulpit, speaking of sacred matters. When he builds a tabernacle, he has no more right to make himself a nuisance than the carpenter working with him. When he preaches a sermon, he has no more right to be a malicious political speaker than the pulpit. Most ministers, we like to believe, are more concerned with their unusual responsibilities than with their privileges. They are conscious, we think, of their isolation and the danger of a warped mind and an inflated ego. They know that authority is not conferred by a degree, but earned by wise counsel, fair play and temperate speech.

The Andersons and Norrises are a minority, to be sure, but we seem to have more than our share of them. They are the curse of America, the real enemies of religion. We commend the citizens of Dallas for their disciplinary treatment of one of them.—The Outlook.

MOTHER WAS A DEMOCRAT

Several years ago a very dear friend of mine from Texas decided to marry a young lady of the Catholic faith. He and all his people were members of the Methodist Church South. Knowing that I was a Catholic he asked for my advice. I knew of the great love he had for his mother down in Texas, so I advised that he consult her and be guided by her wishes. He told me that he had sent the girl's picture to his mother, but had never mentioned that she was a Catholic because of the bitter opposition to Catholics which prevailed in his immediate family. However, he wrote the letter to his mother and about three weeks later he greeted me smilingly and in that delightful Texas drawl, said: "Wa'al, yere's a lettah from mother—read 't. I did. The second page, as I now recall it, read:

"So, my son you have decided to marry a Catholic and ask my advice. I can't say that I am pleased, son, but if you feel that you will make this girl the same sort of a husband your goodfather was to me, if you feel that she will always love you and you her—by all means marry her with your mother's blessings and prayers for your happiness. I always pray for your happiness. And then, having married this girl according to the Catholic rite, be good and loyal to her. And when that is all over and you are voting up there in New York for God's sake don't ever write back here and tell me you're voting a Republican ticket. I'll forgive you for marrying a Catholic, but never for being a Republican or voting for one."

From the foregoing, isn't it reasonable to assume that thousands of Southern Protestants will take the same stand on election day?

Robert J. McMahon, Brooklyn, N. Y. July 19, 1928.

Owsley and Blanton have given their support to Connally while McLe, more has tendered his support to Mayfield. The junior senator from Texas is up for a second term. He is a resourceful politician and a good campaigner and the coming run off fight will be interesting.

The vote for Senator is as follows: Mayfield 188,700; Connally 168,474; Owsley 123,114; Blanton 117,425; Minnie Fisher Cunningham 27,164; McLe 9,394. These returns are incomplete but indicate the position of the candidates.

Now that the election is over and the fortunes of the political groups have been defeated or elected, all Democrats everywhere should now turn their attention to the caucus on August 11 at Austin where campaign plans are to be made for the party in Texas. Press dispatches indicate Governor Moody will take the stump for the ticket. In this event he will incur the political enmity of many who voted for him on last Saturday. This column includes Governor Moody in its democratic loyalty and will fight for his election in November the same as the national ticket.

Barry Miller lacked but a few votes of gaining a victory over all opponents in the field. Tom Love the renegade in politics is to be in the run off. Love should know better than to try to defeat the Democratic nominees in Texas, but what he lacks in knowledge of the political temper of the people, will be meted out to him on August 25. Let's give Miller a big vote in Milam county on August 25.

To The Editor:

"I am sure that you would not purposely misrepresent any one or draw any false conclusions from a premise that was without political significance."

"In last week's esteemed Cameron Herald, I noticed where you quoted me concerning an interview with Tom Heflin in Des Moines recently. I stated that Mr. Heflin spoke well of Mayfield, Moody and Connally and you apparently assumed that this meant that they were four peas in a pod."

"I merely asked Mr. Heflin what the people in Washington thought of the three Texans. He said that each was well thought of in Washington. Mayfield on account of his record as a Senator and his pleasing personality, Moody for his reputation for prosecuting corruption in public office, and Connally for his leadership and ability in Congress. I was glad to note that our fellow Texans were esteemed in Washington."

"This, however, was without political application. For instance, if someone in Bryan would ask me about Mr. J. B. White of Cameron and I most certainly would speak well of you. But this would not mean that I was voting for Wardlaw for Governor or Owsley for Senator."

"There was no significance to the fact that Mr. Heflin did not mention Mr. Owsley. I did not ask him about Mr. Owsley. I asked him only of Texans who were known in Washington. However, doubtless Mr. Heflin would have said something nice of Mr. Owsley if he has heard of him. I went to see Mr. Heflin purely for curiosity."

"I hope you will publish this letter with the same enthusiasm you published the other article."

"I am glad to join with you in the support of Al Smith for president whose career I have long admired. The romance that surrounds the life of Mr. Smith will go far toward electing him."

Your friend,
Mouton Cobb."

Milam county is to gather a good cotton crop. Conditions of prosperity should return to us. Let's forget politics for a few days and think about other things of interest. True we have a run off in four state races but all of them are seemingly settled in advance of the ballot. This fall we must do all we can to elect Governor Smith.

The Baptists of Milam County are meeting here soon in an old fashioned encampment. The encampment is an institution peculiar to protestant peoples and was the means of getting many into the kingdom some twenty-five years ago. They have been abandoned to some extent but the Milam folks are going back to the traditions of the church in the matter of the encampment but the program has a modern touch and subjects important to the modern day work of the church will be discussed. Let the people here give to the encampers their hearty co-operation for a good time and a profitable stay.

Telephones Increase 1000 Per Cent In 20 Years.

In the last twenty years the population of the United States has increased forty-five per cent, while the number of telephones in use has increased one thousand per cent. The telephone has become almost indispensable to both the business and the social world. In fact, the telephone has become so much a part of everyone's life and is in such constant use, it is taken for granted and is not appreciated to the extent it should be. It has become so easy to take down the receiver and talk to any place or person desired that the public is beginning to overlook the value of telephone service.

Telephone development has been so rapid that telephone patrons know very little of the achievements in improving and extending service except that from year to year it has become increasingly easier to talk and that additional uses of the telephone, saving both time and effort, are arising daily.

Every year the people of the United States talk more over the telephone than they did the year before. Statistics show that we talk more over the telephone than any other country in the world, and that our country has more telephones than all the rest of the world combined. For every hundred persons in the United States there are fifteen telephones. Every minute day and night 50,000 telephone bells are ringing somewhere in our country.

The Telephone Company is continuing to make it still more easy to talk by improvements in all branches of the industry. The companies that comprise the Bell System are this year spending $1,000,000 a day for improvements and additions to their facilities.

Many new conveniences in telephone service are becoming available to the public. Most of the crack express trains in this country are now connected with a nation-wide telephone system up to the last minute before their departure. A telephone in every state-room has become standard equipment on modern ocean liners.

Improvements in long distance service have made possible its use with greater speed and with less effort each year. These improvements, and the increasing use of two-number or station-to-station service, have brought down the average time necessary to complete a long distance call from five minutes in 1926 to three minutes at the close of 1927.

Most persons are all familiar with the Trans-Atlantic Radio Telephone Service and what it has meant to the world by making possible telephone communication between the principal nations of two continents. Nearly 3,000,000 over-sea telephones have been brought within reach of 18,000,000 American telephones.

All of these improvements have been made possible through the tireless efforts of thousands of employees. The public seldom thinks of the vast army of workers that are required in furnishing them service ready for instant use day or night. Over 350,000 men and women in the Bell System are devoting their entire energies in providing the American people with the best possible telephone service at the least possible cost.

Good Road Facts

Henceforth, civilization can be no better than its highways.

More than $1,000,000,000 was spent in improving highways of the United States last year.

Good roads are a fine thing, but it is well to remember that they lead away from the farm as well as to it.

All roads leading to the four gateways of Yellowstone National park are reported to be in excellent condition.

The national parks, seven in the United States and three in Canada, are now linked together by improved highways.

The Defense highway, shortening the distance between Washington and Annapolis, Md., by eight miles, will be completed this year.

Twenty times around the world! Such, at any rate, is the distance American motorists could travel on their 500,000 miles of surfaced roads.

The Arizona highway department has taken consideration of the pedestrian on the roadway and has made official recommendation that he walk on the left side.

Minnesota has 100,000 miles of public roads of which 7,000 are trunk highways treated by special patrol maintenance, on which there has been expended during the past five years $33,000,000 annually. This state is a large user of calcium chloride for dust laying and highway maintenance.

Street Topping Under Headway In Cameron

Gravel for base is now being laid in Cameron for the topping program authorized by the city last year. As soon as the base is set the topping will be applied. Property owners are urged to sign up for the paving.

In some instances curbs are being built. The character of work being done may not meet the expectations of all but will materially improve our streets.

To the Voters of Precinct Two

I desire to extend my sincere thanks to the voters of Commissioner's Precinct 2 for the splendid vote given me on Saturday July 28. Although I had no opponent it was a pleasure for me to go among my friends and talk over my race for re-election. I have served the people to the best of my ability and in the future will continue to serve them to the best of my ability. For the support given me I am duly grateful and will seek to merit the confidence thus reposed in me.

How His Game Helped

By EDGAR T. MONFORT

JOHN ARTHUR was so sensitive about his limp. Yet it was such an honorable limp, so honorably won. Injured in the leg during the war, somehow the operation to repair the accident had not been entirely successful and for a long time he had used crutches—at last he had learned to get along with a stick, and for awhile had hoped eventually to abandon even that, but as the years passed he realized that it would never be. He was doomed to hobble through life.

He was walking down the street one day when he dropped the magazine he was carrying under his arm and with a stiff knee stooping down was next to impossible, so he had to stand beside his prostrate magazine, ignominiously sprawling on the sidewalk, and wait for a kind passerby to hand it to him.

Florence Evans, walking jauntily along the street in her little blue flannel dress with the blue felt hat to match, saw the mishap from a distance and hurried to restore the book to its owner.

"Thank you," he said, embarrassed, as he always was under these circumstances. "Got a game knee and stooping's too much of a stunt for me." He tried to laugh it off.

"I think you're game!" she came back at him. "to speak of it so lightly."

Then by the flush of his dark, handsome face she knew that she had said the wrong thing. She put a timid hand on his coat sleeve.

"I mean, I mean—it isn't bad. Nobody notices it. I mean—but I'm sorry."

She said it so wistfully as she walked along beside him that it made his heart jump, and he cursed his lameness the more.

"My name's John Arthur," he said after a moment, "if I may introduce myself."

"Not the Pennington's John Arthur?" Why, everybody in that family simply adores you! They've written me such letters about you!"

"And I'm willing to bet you're Miss Peggy Hampton—just back from Europe where you went to acquire knowledge."

"Exactly that!" she laughed. "Why, we know each other already, don't we?"

"I should say so! I should have recognized you from their description, but I just wasn't expecting to see you at this moment. I thought you weren't due in until next week."

"Yes, but I was exempt from final exams because I was good. So I came over early, and when mother and dad saw me they couldn't believe their eyes."

She was a charming little trick, he thought, trotting along by his side—so amazingly small beside his huge frame that it made her look like a very animated doll. They parted at the next street corner and Arthur stood with bared head.

"Of course, I don't think that I could—cut anyone out—or anything like that," he stammered. "Just friends—but if I might call once in awhile . . . ?"

"I just wish you'd call twice in awhile," she smiled warmly. "It would be fun."

And that evening after Peggy went to bed she kept wondering and wondering when he would come. He was so delightful and so good-looking—and even the limp somehow made him more attractive to her. She pined for him and wanted to mother him.

From the very first visit they got along famously together. Knowing many of the same people, loving the same authors, they had no difficulty in finding things to talk about. They would spend the long summer afternoons together "buddying," as they called it, reading a book or just idling the time away.

It was toward the end of the summer. He was leaning against a tree with his legs stretched out in front of him, the book they had just been reading tossed face down on the grass, the smart roadster parked at the side of the pike.

"I'd give ten years of my life not to have this," he said, tapping his leg with his cane.

"Oh, but, Jack," she protested, slipping her hand into his. "I might never have met you if it hadn't been for—that and the magazine."

"I wish to heaven we hadn't met!" he said at last between stiff lips—and Peggy, affronted, fell back.

"Oh, well, if you feel that way," she said coldly.

"Oh, Peggy, my Lord, you don't know I'm wild about you. But a fellow in my fix can't—"

And Peggy, all smiles and warmth in a second, her face alight with happiness, did a most un-maidenly thing. She crept up into his arms and drew them about her.

"Maybe you don't know how to purpose," she said mischievously a moment later, "but I do—and sometimes, if a girl wants a man it's her only chance of getting him."

"Oh, Peggy," he said, his voice husky with feeling. "Peggy, do you really believe you could stand it?"

"Stand it?" she scoffed. "Why, somehow I don't know how to put it into words, but—it just seems to make me love you more."

"Well, hanged if I don't love my old game leg after that!" he laughed, "and after all it was what brought us together."

WHAT WE THINK

By FRANK DIXON

All candidates are willing to stand pat on the platform after all the planks are turned over.

We are willing to bet that it will be a long time before the Democrats will hold another convention in Houston.

We do not care a whoop about Jeffersonian Democracy.

If the Democrats win it must be by Al Smith Democracy.

The fact is that the word "democracy" is a much abused word.

After the Democrats and epublicans got through making their keynote speeches we were sure then that the rascals will continue to run the government.

The static at the Houston convention was worse than at Kansas City. Now if some party can hold a convention without static, we will be for them.

All the embattled farmers who attended the Houston convention were Democrats.

The fellow who buys at home only when Rhe can't get it cheaper anywhere else, does not deserve any medals as a community builder.

In some respects education but refines cruelty. For instance a careful survey of the instrument of torture used by the ancients does not reveal the presence of a single saxophone.

Fewer banks and better bankers says the Bank Commissioner. We say fewer farms and better farmers and so on all along the line.

The trouble with the average committee is that it takes most of the time of the members that know what should be done, to get the rest of them to see it.

The reason why some towns do not progress faster is because there are not enough fellows in them who are willing to get behind the other fellow's plan and push it to success.

It is true clothes do not make the man, but there will always be those

In order to settle his debts as the foreign debts were settled the individual has to take out bankruptcy proceedings.

If we expected them to take it we would all be more careful about giving folks advice.

Picnic At Wayside

Miss Lucille Green, sponsor of the Just For Fun Club which is composed of a group of young girls, took that club for a picnic outing at Wayside Inn Wednesday afternoon leaving the City Park via truck at five o'clock.

On their arrival at the picnic grounds supper was spread and the youngsters were served, cafeteria style to sandwiches, pickles, cakes, iced tea, candies and fruit.

After supper various games kept the girls busy until 7:30 when they took their places in the truck and went for a ride before returning to their homes. In the course of the ride the club members and their guests were served iced soda pop and chewing gum.

Visitors of the club were: Mrs. T. A. Fisher and Tom Jr., Mrs. R. B. Rylander, Master Lee Batte Harvey and Mary Louise Doggett.

Movie Life Figures In B. Y. P. U. Program At City Park Here

Joe Roand, president of the Senior B. Y. P. U. and James Markham, Bible Quizz leader, entertained the members of their B. Y. P. U. Friday night at the City Park Pavillion.

Thirty popular actors and actresses were portrayed in all-star production directed by Cecil B. de Mille. The pavillion was decorated in Hollywood design and provided a fortune telling booth and an "Our Gang Cafe" at which the stars were refreshed with iced fruit punch and macaroons served by May Dell Smith and Helen Swift.

Billy Newton as candidate for license issuer, announced for office and issued some very clever licenses, causing much merriment.

The judges on costumes presented awards to Miss Hilda Burke who represented Sue Carell and Guy Slocomb as Harold Lloyd.

At nine o'clock the hosts led the way to the New Hefley theater where the party saw "West Point" During the show Miss Goldye Burke passed the mint tray.

After the show the members returned in a group to the pavillion where they gathered around the cafe and toasted each other in fare well cup.

Chaperones were Mrs. S. F. Swift, Mrs. David Smith and Mrs. Julia Hurst. Mrs. Lula Criswell of Buckholts was an out of town guest.

Home Makers

Twenty-five home makers and their guests were hospitably entertained through a social hour Monday evening at eight o'clock when the Home Makers Sunday School Class and its teacher, Mrs. E. S. Hutcherson were given a watermelon feast on the Baptist church lawn by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bass.

Delicious iced melons were served from the long service table presided over by the host and hostess. Fans were presented as favors to the guests.

Bridge Party

Miss Margaret Hudson of Austin was honored at a three table bridge party Wednesday afternoon when Miss Florence was hostess at the Atkinson home on East Thirteenth St. Pink zinnias in vases lent charm to the well appointed reception rooms. Table favors were green vases filled with cut zinnias. These in the cuts fell to Miss Lois Robbins, Geraldine Slaughter and Ethel Green. The hostess presented Miss Ethel Green with her graduation gift at this time.

At the conclusion of a number of enthusiastic games a delightful plate consisting of sandwiches, cheese balls cakes and iced tea was served.

"I tried many remedies, but nothing did me any good until I started taking Cardui."

To the Voters:

I want to thank my good friends and supporters for the substantial majority given me in last Saturday's primary and I hope I shall be able to give you service worthy of the confidence you have placed in me.

It is my intention and desire and will be my pleasure to serve you at any time and in any way possible. I shall be glad to have you call on me at any time, and I want you to feel that you have a friend in the tax assessor's office.

To those who opposed me, I want to say that you shall have the same consideration and courteous treatment that you would have received had you not opposed me.

I want, especially, to express my appreciation to the boys I served with in the old 360th Infantry in France, and the world war veterans all over the county, for the whole hearted support you gave me. I am deeply indebted to you.

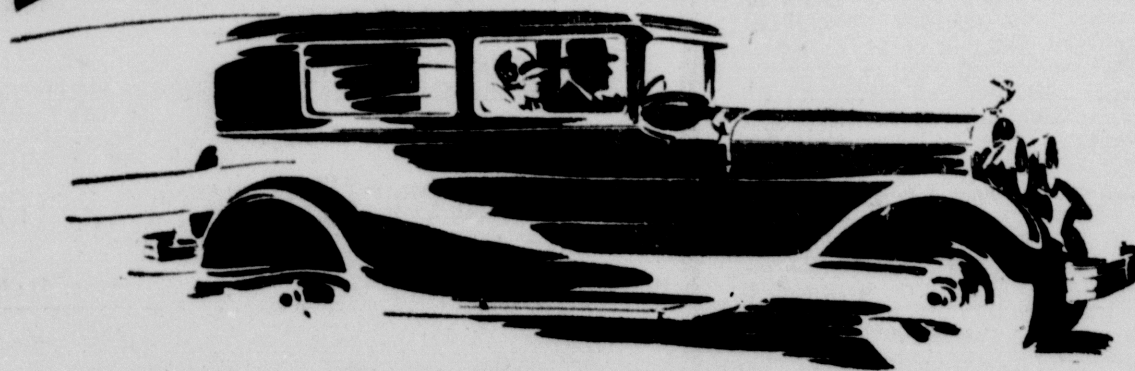

I wish it were possible for me to write each of my friends a personal letter of appreciation, but that would be impossible, so, again, I thank you all for your support, and hope that I may be able to repay you in service rendered.

With the best of good wishes for each of you, I am,

MOODY CARRIES MILAM COUNTY OVER WARDLAW

Governor Dan Moody carried Milam county by a majority of 117 votes over Louis J. Wardlaw. This is the first time Moody has received a majority of votes in this county since his memorial campaign for attorney general.

Congressman Tom Conally was high man in the senatorial campaign leading Mayfield and Owsley. The vote of Mayfield was a surprise as it was thought he would lead the ticket in the county.

S. H. Terrell for Comptroller led all state officers where races were contested, receiving more than three to one over his opponent J. D. Jones.

Senator Witt Wins Over Poage For Seat In Upper House

Senator Edgar E. Witt won his race for re-election to the state senate over W. R. Poage, member of the house from McLennan county by a fair majority.

The vote of Milam county elected Senator Witt. He was defeated in McLennan county but won Milam by several hundred votes. Senator Witt owes his election to the vote of Milam county which has always voted a majority for him.

THOUSANDS CANNOT TAKE ASPIRIN

The discovery a few years ago of a pain relief with exhaustive tests by thousands of physicians, dentists and nurses proved it to be truly wonderful. It was indeed a great blessing to sufferers of headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, neuritis, period pains. During the great flu epidemic it was conclusively found thousands could not take aspirin, acetanilid or compounds containing these.

The remarkable new discovery called A-Vol does not contain aspirin, acetanilid or any heart depressants. It is absolutely harmless to young or old. It stops pain in five minutes and instead of leaving you feeling loggy, it actually peps you up.

If you have severe headache, pains of any kind, you owe it to yourself to try this remarkable new scientific discovery. A tube of twelve tablets at your druggists costs but a few cents. Just ask for A-Vol—you will

The Professor's Mistake

By JANE OSBORN

PROFESSOR HEATON liked to have the men and girls in his classes sit according to the alphabetical arrangement of their names. So it was—and for no other reason—that Constance Pearce sat next to Jim Peberdy in a class in solid geometry which they were both taking during their senior years. Freshman required subject though it was, Jim Peberdy was taking it because he had failed to pass it in the Freshman year and had somehow managed to put off making up this deficiency until his last year in college. Constance had transferred with advanced standing at the beginning of her last year from another college where solid geometry had not been required for a degree. Before final examinations Jim was willing to admit to himself that Constance Pearce was the only girl among the co-eds he had met who interested him one little bit, and Constance felt assured that Jim Peberdy was a young man apart from the ordinary.

And once shortly before the finals Constance spent a whole evening in one of the reception rooms in the girl's dormitory trying to help Jim to a better understanding of solid geometry.

"But really it doesn't matter," said she, knowing that it was useless as well as untrue to tell Jim that he did even tolerably well in the hated subject. "You get wonderful marks in philosophy and languages. No one knows as much Greek as you do, so it's silly to mind about the mathematics."

"Silly, nothing," said Jim Peberdy. "I can't get my degree unless I pass all required subjects—and no degree will mean no chance to take the Smith prize in Greek, which means, if I get it—a summer of research in Athens. If I do my work well there in Greece, it means, perhaps, a pretty good appointment here next autumn."

There was nothing unfair about the examination—still it was difficult. Other examinations followed and it was not until the day before commencement that final marks were all available and that the names of those about to receive their degrees were posted in the dean's office. Constance fairly ran into Jim as they both hurried from different directions to look at the important list. Of course, Constance felt sure of herself—but she was eager to know about Jim.

"It's all right, Jim. I am so glad," she was saying, and Jim, standing beside her, uttered an amazed "Gosh!"

"But you're through," said Constance.

"It isn't that—" whispered Jim. "It's you—but it must be a mistake." Then Constance looked at the list again. Her name was not there.

"Oh, of course, it's a mistake," said Constance.

She went cheerfully enough into the dean's office, explained her errand and waited while he consulted reports strewn over the desk. "I am afraid, Miss Pearce," he said gravely, "that you have not filled the requirements. That is the difficulty that transferred students frequently have. You've tripped up on geometry."

Constance listened in amazement. The mark sent in by Professor Heaton for her was so low that it could not possibly be raised. Of course, there was no mistake about it—and as Professor Heaton had sailed that morning for Europe he could hardly be consulted.

Back in her room Constance thought the matter over, and after awhile she began to smile. When she went out to meet Jim she was still smiling.

"It's all right," she told him. "Of course, I just didn't get through." "But you know you passed that geometry—you must have if I did." "I'm not much surprised," lied Constance. "You see, I was a transfer—the dean says that transfers have trouble keeping up—but I really don't care much."

"It was hard enough going away from you, anyway," Jim told her, "but now it's terrible. But if I don't go, I won't make good—and making good means that I may dare ask you when I get home to marry me."

Late that summer Professor Heaton returned from Europe, and shortly afterwards Constance Pearce paid him a call. She simply asked to see her examination book.

On the top of the pink paper cover was written in blue pencil the figure "98." The old professor almost went in his confusion and chagrin.

"If there is anything I can do to make up to you—for the embarrassment this has caused—" he stammered. "Of course, I'll report my mistake to the office—you will have your degree and there will be a general explanation."

"May I see Jim Peberdy's book?" asked Constance gravely. It was speedily produced. "36" was the rating marked on the outside of his book.

"All you need do," said Constance, "is to destroy that book—burn it. You needn't even report your mistake to the dean. I'm very fond of Jim—and—"

Professor Heaton took Constance's hand in a warm clasp. "I understand," he said. "I'm almost glad I made the mistake."

The Herald is indebted to R. L. Batte, Jr., for a report to this paper Tuesday morning of the first bale of the 1928 crop of cotton ginned there Monday.

The first bale was produced by Will Wuensche on his farm two miles from Thorndale. The bale weighed 1599 pounds in seed and the lint bale weighed 546 pounds. The cotton sold for 24c and the merchants made up a premium of $87.50.

What a Question!

"Where are you going in such a hurry?" asked Mrs. Bibbles. "Over to John Jagby's house," said Mr. Bibbles. "He has just telephoned to ask if I could lend him a corkscrew, and I'm taking it myself."

"Couldn't you send it?" "Mrs. Bibbles," said Mr. Bibbles in cutting tones, "the question you ask me shows why most women are unfit to lead arduous and make quick decisions in business deals involving millions. When the psychological moment arrives, they don't know what to do with it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Nerves Give Off Heat

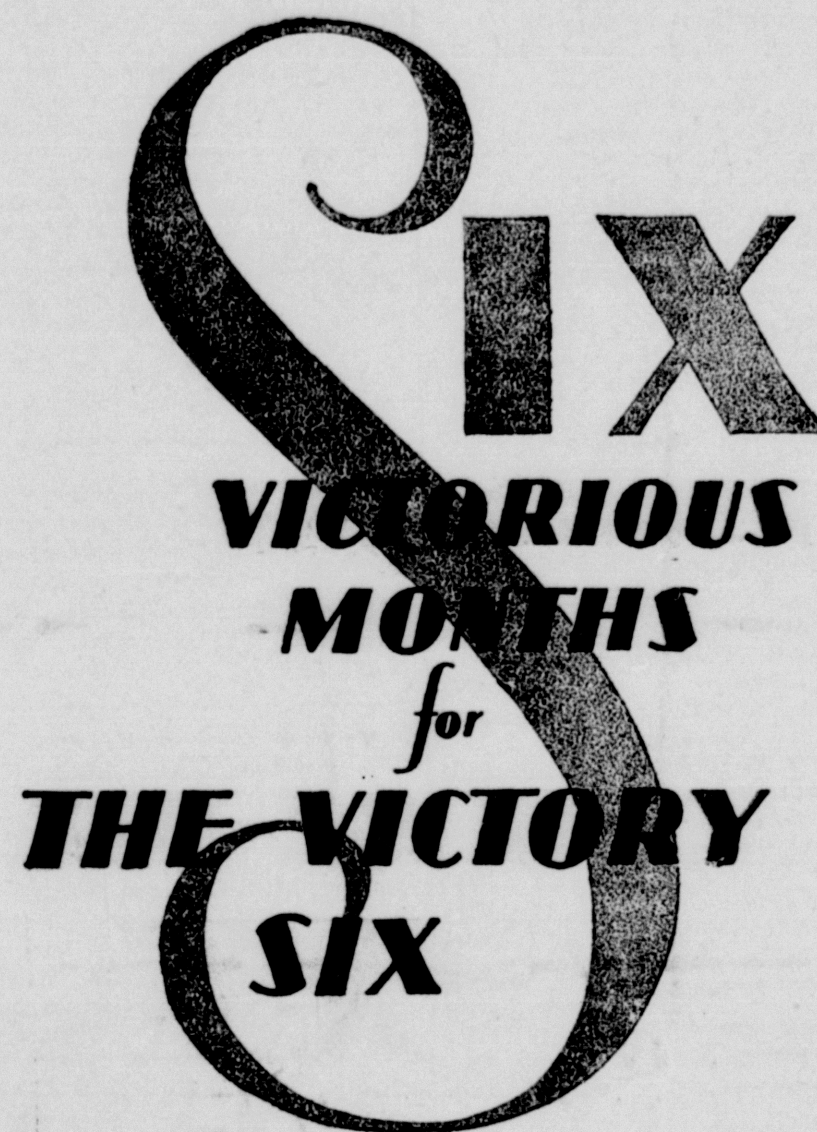

New researches at Cornell university seem to show that an impulse traveling along a nerve is a high-speed chemical reaction. It was the old belief, based on the fact that stimulated nerves had never been found to give off heat, that the nerve impulse was a sort of electrical current. By using an electric heat-measuring device capable of recording a temperature change of one twenty-millionth of a degree, it was found that a nerve gives off a minute quantity of heat when it reacts.

Aquarium Cement

Cement for panes in aquariums is produced from litharge and glycerin. The former must be as finely powdered as possible and the glycerin very condensed, of a sirupy consistency and limpid. Mix the two ingredients into a semi-fluid paste, coat the panes, or pour the tough mass into the reservoir cavity, and press into it the part to be cemented on. The surplus oozing out must be removed at once and the place cleaned, as the putty hardens very rapidly.

When the Victory Six was announced six months ago it was the talk of the town.

What would it look like? What would it do? Would it be different from other cars? In what way? And so on.

Then the public saw the Victory Six!

Its freshness of design was a revelation. It was different. Like no other car.

Rakish and trim—low and graceful—smart hued and colorful—it captured the eye. Immediately.

Look again. Wider seats—more leg space. Big! Roomy!

Then it proved, in operation and performance, the promise suggested by its beauty.

Swift pick-up—smoothness—speed.

Dodge Brothers dependability again!

It was a great car then; it is an even greater car now.

It has stood the test.

Each month has seen a substantial increase in Victory Six sales.

Not because of what we have been saying for six months. Or because of what we say now.

But because of what the Victory Six is.

Texas and Texans'

By Will H. Mayes

Terracing Texas Lands

Before many years Texas farmers will wonder that they ever allowed valuable lands to wash away that could have been saved by terracing. Terracing is being better understood and practiced although the instruction has in many sections been slower than the land erosion. Last year a total of 494,000 acres was terraced in Texas, by far the largest acreage since the work was first begun under the direction of the agricultural engineer of the A. & M. College. This year more than a half million acres will be terraced. Farmers who have rolling lands that are losing their fertility through washing rains should inform themselves on the value of terracing their farms. The county farm agent of your county will assist you in every way possible and if you have no farm agent the A. & M. College will be glad to help you save your soil.

Federal Road Help

The Federal Government has made up its budget for State road aid for the next three years, amounting to $219,000,000. Because of its large area, Texas gets the largest apportionment, $4,502,576 a year. To obtain this the State must put an equal amount into the road construction, but as Texas is spending far more than that amount each year the apportionment for the State may be safely counted in our road building estimates. The Government recognizes that good roads are a National, as well as a State and local asset.

Seeking New Industries

Fred L. Haskett, a well known newspaper man, has been employed by the Childress Chamber of Commerce to visit the several sections of Texas and interest manufacturers in the industrial needs of Childress, the First National Bank of the town co-operating in the employment of Mr. Haskett. The purpose is good, but Mr. Haskett is working the wrong territory. Every Texas locality needs more manufacturing industries and has none to spare. Mr. Haskett should work in other states, where industries are seeking new localities. Texas industries that are placed should stay placed.

Jacksonville's Plan

Jacksonville is an East Texas town with a vision of growth and the pluck to go after it. The Chamber of Commerce has purchased 80 acres of land adjoining the Missouri Pacific Railroad on one side and the Southern Pacific on the other to be used as site for any industries that may want to locate there. The Cotton Belt Railroad has recently acquired 53 acres of land adjoining its tracks in the same town to be used for industrial purposes. The Chamber of Commerce is said to be negotiating now with at least two industries regarding a Jacksonville location. That is a good way to get them.

Elberta Peach Shipments

The Elberta peach shipment from East Texas is now well under way. While the crop in some counties is short, the East Texas country as a whole will have a good crop which is selling at fair prices. Tomatoes have made a fine crop that has been sold at satisfactory prices. The berries have been gathered and sold. Irish potatoes and onions have been marketed. Prospects for sweet potatoes are fine. Watermelons are luscious and plentiful. Cotton and corn are coming along splendidly. The milk factories and creameries are wanting more milk and cream. East Texas is prosperous and East Texas farmers are getting the first money.

Louisiana-Texas Line

Shreveport interests that have had their nets spread for years for East Texas trade, but that have been hesitant about reciprocating, have been forced by the courts to allow Texas farmers to market their home grown products in Shreveport without paying a prohibitive tax. The fight came up over the refusal to allow Shelby county melon growers to market their melons from their wagons to residents of Shreveport, but the Shelby growers won the right to sell Texas products on the same basis that Louisiana farm products are sold. Certain Shreveport parties made the same fight last year. The Louisiana city that gets so much of its trade from Texas should show a more liberal spirit than it has been manifesting.

Milk Products Plants

Marshall has opened its milk products plant. It cost $150,000. The plant manufactures a powdered milk, in addition to butter and cream. It is prepared to handle all the cream, sweet milk and buttermilk it can get from Harrison and adjoining counties and the prices being paid are said to be satisfactory. The plant is the largest South of Missouri and West of the Mississippi river.

A movement is on foot to establish a powdered milk factory at Brady to cost $200,000 and to handle all the milk and cream that can be produced within a fifty mile radius. It is meeting with favor and the plant will likely be built.

Cisco was interested a short while ago in a similar enterprise and sent a committee to other States to study the operation of similar plants. The committee made a favorable report and a survey was made to see if the milk could be secured in the territory to keep a plant running. Dairy interest is increasing all over Texas.

Building City Halls

Cities and towns need creditable business paces for their officials, just as other business interests need them. Many Texas towns have modern city halls but some city halls are more like barns. They give an impression of lack of city pride. Mercedes and Weslaco, in the Lower Rio Grande Valley are among the young Texas cities that have just completed city halls costing $50,000 each.

Boys' and Girls' Man

H. B. Ross is a county farm agent who finds it pays to work with farm boys and girls and he gets genuine pleasure from it. A few years ago he was county agent in Shelby county. He got together, with the assistance of the progressive business men of Center a party of some 300 boys and girls and took them on a tour of Texas including Austin and San Antonio. They carried their own camping equipment and food and had a good and a profitable time. On the trip they spent a week at the A. & M. College Short Course. Since then County Agent Ross has left Shelby county but the annual tour of the boys and girls continues, a new itinerary being made each year. This year New Orleans is the objective point.

Agent Ross is now at work along the same lines in Victoria county and recently took 254 boys and girls on a trip to Austin and San Antonio and for a short farm study course at Medina Lake. His educational trip plans can hardly be excelled, but they might profitably be copied. Travel is a great educator.

MILADY TRAVELS ALONE!

As a final expression of her utter independence, the American "Lady Alone" is encountered where'er the pulse of the world beats fastest—in brilliant metropolises of the United States, or in foreign lands.

Leisurely sipping pleasure, She does not wish to be annoyed at the lack of welcome given a personal check, or with the safety of her funds.

That is why Her chic handbag usually contains a neat little wallet of Travelers Cheques, procured before leaving home. These Cheques bear Milady's signature and are Her identification. They are insured against loss or theft, and are spendable wherever their owner's fancy may lead Her. For a Lady contemplating traveling Alone, this Bank recommends Travelers Cheques.

Birthday Party

Mrs. G. A. Plentl was hostess to a Birthday Party for her son, Homer Plentl, on his 13th birthday. The party was given on the lawn at the Plentl home Tuesday July 31 from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Misses Lorene Plentl and Margaret McCown assisted in entertaining the seventeen boys and girls who were Homer's guests at this time.

Watermelon was served preceding a peppy program of games. After games came the cutting of the birthday cake which afforded much pleasure as it yielded its hidden fortunes, the ring to Nancy Newton, the thimble to Helen Deer and the dime to Nelta Deer. From the cake the party passed through an arbor to the fountain of youth where iced fruit punch was served before the guests left for their homes. Victrola music was played during the evening.

Methodist Church

We are through July and now are looking toward September. School days are approaching. The church in all of its activities should be in full swing when September gets here. Let's begin now and keep growing.

Sunday School will meet at 9:45. We were down a little last Sunday. Who was absent?

The Epworth Juniors will meet at 6:00 and the Seniors at 7:00. The attendance and interest were good last Sunday. Some of the young folk were out of town. We want everybody this week.

Preaching services at 11:00 and at 8:00. We missed our Junior choir and our orchestra pieces last Sunday night.

The pastor is preaching on the Disciples of Jesus at the evening services. Next Sunday night he will preach on "Philip, the Matter-of-Fact Man." Join our Sunday night crowds.

Baptist Church

A. D. Foreman, pastor of the Burlington church and teacher in the Seminary at Fort Worth conducted the evening service at our church last Sunday.

The pastor will preach at the regular morning service next Sunday and Rev. Paul Bell of Bastrop who is at the head of Mexican work in Texas will preach Sunday evening at eight o'clock in the absence of the pastor who begins a revival meeting at San Gabriel that night.

The Junior choir is functioning during the summer months and is a real treat. B. Y. P. U.'s will meet at 6:45 Sunday evening. The Senior Union will present a play at this regular meeting. H. P. Black has returned from the Lampasas Encampment and will again have charge of the singing.

THOUSANDS CANNOT TAKE ASPIRIN

The discovery a few years ago of a pain relief with exhaustive tests by thousands of physicians, dentists and nurses proved it to be truly wonderful, was indeed a great blessing to sufferers of headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, neuritis, period pains. During the great flu epidemic it was conclusively found thousands could not take aspirin, acetanilid or compounds containing these.

The remarkable new discovery called A-Vol does not contain aspirin, acetanilid or any heart depressants. It is absolutely harmless to young or old. It stops pain in five minutes and instead of leaving you feeling lousy, it actually peps you up.

If you have severe headache, pains of any kind, you owe it to yourself to try this remarkable new scientific discovery. A tube of twelve tablets at your druggists costs but a few cents. Just ask for A-Vol—you will be delighted.

Here is an interesting comment on the life of John B. McLane, pioneer citizen, published Sunday in the Temple Telegram. The article overlooked the fact that Mr. McLane served two terms as Mayor of Cameron:

John B. McLane, better known as "Uncle John," was born in Dallas county, Alabama, in 1853, and received his early schooling in Wilcox county, going through the usual toil of Davis arithmetic and Smith's grammar at the schools of old Oak Hill where he had his linen dusted with nice beech tree switches. Mr. McLane states that a greater part of his education was received through W. M. Woodson.

He came to Texas in December of 1869, settling in Burleson county in the Brazos bottom. At the time of his settling there, Bryan was the terminus of the Central Railroad. In December, a year later, Mr. McLane moved to Milam county, where he has made his home since.

Mr. McLane began his business career as a salesman in 1872 in a country store at Maysfield. It was in this store that he learned the meaning of debt and credit, which later as an auditor he used to a great advantage. After one year with the Hildreth store he began work with Hub Williams in a general store where he remained until 1874, the year of his removal to Cameron, in which he was employed by the Ackerman and Smith firm. He recalled the early method of trade when the husband and wife came from the country on horses with saddle bags to the store, the wife buying material for a dress on one side of the counter while her husband ordered a dollar's worth of coffee or sugar and a dollar's worth of whiskey.

In October of 1879 after a courtship of some four years, Mr. McLane and Miss Fanny Brooks were married. To this union four children were born: Evelyn, Annie, John F. and Brooks McLane. Mr. and Mrs. McLane made their first home in Hearne, moving from there to Cameron in 1882, where

Mr. McLane established the McLane Lumber Company. In 1889 he assisted in the organization of the First National Bank, Cameron. In 1892 he went into that institution as cashier, remaining in that office eleven years as the associate of John M. Hefley, president; W. T. Hefley and T. F. Hardy.

After leaving the bank, Mr. McLane worked as a salesman in the R. L. Batte store until last January. Since that time he has been giving his time to horticultural interests. His specialty is the grafting of fine varieties of grapes onto Mustang grape roots. Mr. McLane is due the credit of buying the first Jersey cow that came to Milam County, paying $150 for her. He was severely ridiculed by his neighbors for giving this exorbitant price for a "Plain Cow." In order to prove the value of his investment, Mr. McLane kept a record on "Lady Hilda" for a period of six months and found that she produced 200 pounds of butter in that length of time.

Sport Touring Car Announced In Dodge Victory Six Models

Addition of a sport touring car to the Victory Six line has been announced by Dodge Brothers, Inc., the body being leaf mould brown trimmed in beetle green. Upholstery is tan shark grain leather. Standard equipment includes six wire wheels, the two spares being mounted in welled front fenders with trunk rack in rear.

Nickel plating of the windshield frame, head and cowl lamps, stanchions molding, steering column, gear shift and hand brake levers, bumpers, spare tire carriers, door handles, hood hinge and latches and hub caps add unusual beauty to the car. The windshield is designed so it can be pushed over forward when the top is down.

Instrument board equipment contains the starting button within easy reach of the driver. Grouped under a single glass panel illuminated by a hooded dash light are the speedometer, ammeter, fuel gauge, oil gauge and engine temperature indicator.

Roominess in both front and rear seats is featured in the body construction. Seat cushions are built unusually wide and deep and adjusted at angles for maximum riding comfort. Riding qualities are completed by four hydraulic shock absorbers, while internal expanding hydraulic brakes match the acceleration and speed developed by the Victory Six engine. The car is priced at $1245 f. o. b. the factory.

Graham Brothers school bus sales for 1928 to date are forty-eight per cent greater than they were for the same period in 1927 according to a statement just issued by Dodge Brothers, Inc. School bus sales during the whole of 1927 were thirty-six per cent greater than 1926.

I note in the Hopkins Journal that a Hopkins woman says marriage isn't much different from single life. She used to sit up half the night waiting for him to go home and now she sits up half the night waiting for him to come home, which is a whole lot like a fellow over at Sikeston, who says, when he used to call to see his best girl, he would lean over the fence in front of her house and gaze at her shadow on the curtain and fear to go in. They finally were married and Charlie says he acts the same way now.

I know a lot of folks think George Brennan of Illinois may be a roughneck. But he was right in his remark at Houston, that people generally pay far more attention to candidates than to platforms. They feel instinctively that the platform is window dressing so to speak. The man who stands on it is what counts.

I noticed this has started already when Mrs. Effie Fitzpatrick, a dressmaker of Paris states that she is a cousin of Hoover's and that A. B. The question comes to my mind what would happen if all the Smiths voted for Smith. One sure thing there would be more Smiths voting for Smith, than Hoovers for Hoover. Of course it depends.

Machinery And Advertising

Mass production made possible by extensive use of machinery, is generally considered to rival the wealth of our natural resources, as the primary reason why America is richer and Americans live in more comfort and luxury than any other people.

Advertising is the principle of mass production applied to selling. People all over the world have come to realize fully the greatness of advertising and the greatness of mass production and that the two are inseparable and of great advantage to merchants and public. In short, advertising is as necessary to create sales economically as machinery is to create things which can be sold at reasonable prices.

Stop to think what would happen if the machinery were taken out of the world and we had to go back to the old hand methods. Also stop to think what would happen in the way of increased costs, if advertising stories were not brought to you through the paper. Without machinery, production would be so hampered that we would not enjoy one-fifth of the material advantages we do today; without advertising, distribution would be so handicapped and haphazard that prices would multiply and sales would decrease and cost to the public would of necessity be much greater.

It does pay to advertise in The Cameron Herald and it does pay the public to read these ads. It is the mutual exchange, the great money-saver for this nation to read ads for the merchants to tell their stories in ads.
